Society and Justice

Course Description:

The course paper on Crime and Society aims to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the relationship between crime and society. It explores the causes, consequences, and implications of criminal behavior within the broader social context. The paper delves into the literary perspectives on crime, examining how various social factors, such as socioeconomic status, education, family structure, and community dynamics, contribute to the occurrence of criminal activities. The paper also tries to understand the idea of resistance, justice and the role of social institutions, such as the family, schools, and the criminal justice system, in shaping individual behaviour and responses to crime.

Course Objective:

- This course provides various perspectives of crime, law, punishment, and justice.
- Students will be exposed to various critical instances of punishment and perceived sense of justice through varied forms of narratives.
