ANNUAL REPORT 2013 - 2014

INTRODUCTION

A hearty welcome to the chief guest of this evening Dr. R K Somashekar, Rector of St. Joseph's Institutions Rev. Dr. Jerome Stanislaus D'Souza, SJ , Principals of our sister institutions, parents, alumni/ie, members of the faculty & my dear students. It is my pleasure to welcome you all to our Forty Second Celebration of the College Day. A sense of gratitude and deep satisfaction surround us as the college enters its Forty Third year, in its onward journey of spreading educational excellence all around. When I look back and reflect, I am wonderstruck to witness a sea change that technology has brought about. With all the uploading, downloading, pasting and tweeting, the feel, the touch and the immediacy of human experience is evaporating through our fingers.

The virtual world and the Social Media have impacted our day to day life immensely. The advent of myriad portals such as facebook, twitter, Instagram, tumblr and many others have transmuted us into electronic avatars. These are the handy tools used by all to aid communication between many to many in a very visible format. These sites not only expand the social circle and groups manifold but are also bountiful informative resources. With just a click of a button, we are able to communicate ideas, images, videos, music and much more. But possibly such an easy access to information has lessened our urge to visit a library, to personally call upon a friend or to make our actual presence felt to our near and dear ones.

Not handled carefully this dependability and emotional connectivity established on social networking sites can make us vulnerable to many untoward incidents and pose a threat to our identity. Our continuous engagement with technology isolates us, which not instantly felt or realized but gradually creeps upon us and alienates us very subtly. Technology will continue to progress; I hope somewhere in the rush we don't become slaves to these gadgets but rather use them judiciously and to our best advantage. The challenge in front of us is to find ways and means with which we engage our young adults to become technologically and socially responsible.

And now what follows is the essence of our activities and achievements for the academic year 2013-2014.

The College aims at a holistic and overall development of students, fostering in them a spirit of academic excellence, character formation and social concern and shaping them to become "men and women" for others. Patronizing the said motto the College is continuously walking ahead in delivering results to the best of its ability and strength. The present report for the year 2013-14 attempts to list down the activities and achievements nurturing academic excellence, character formation and social concern.

Academic Excellence is the ultimate essence of all activities in St. Joseph's College of Commerce. Sexual Harassment Cell

The protection and empowerment of women is considered more a priority than a requirement and hence a Sexual Harassment Cell has been established in this academic year to provide a healthy and congenial atmosphere to the staff and the students of the institution.

This committee mainly aims to observe and ensure the prevention of women harassment; providing safety in work places; providing appropriate working conditions especially with respect to work, health and hygiene; and also to ensure that there is no existence of any hostile environment for the women folks so that they feel safe and secured and never feel that they are the disadvantaged in any condition.

The sexual harassment cell of our College has a complaints committee, a special counselor and another support service (a legal advisor) who ensures that the above objectives are met and there are no such unjust happenings in the institution. The complaints committee is headed by a woman and it is also a point to note that not less than half of its members are women. As already said, to prevent the possibility of any undue pressure from the senior level, the committee involves a third party who is familiar with this issue. It hence provides the procedures for the resolution, settlement or prosecution of any such acts and also ensures confidentiality making the committee more easily approachable. Therefore the College has proved it again, by this initiative, that it will always strive for 'empowering students especially women, for the development of our society.

E CELL

Escalate 2014 is the first entrepreneurial development intra-College fest organised by the E-cell of St. Joseph's College of Commerce. The core motive of Escalate is to provide a platform for student entrepreneurs to deliver their business ideas by creating awareness and demand for its products or services by helping them test the potential feasibility for the same. Escalate derived its name based on the concept of reaching greater heights or as simple- going sky-high.

Escalate 2014 was held on the 5th of February 2014. It was conducted during 12:30pm to 1:30 pm slot and later again from 2:30 pm to 4 pm. There were a total of 10 groups that participated displaying their business ideas which were completely different from one another. The stalls like Sweet Something, Cuppy Cakes, Eat Play and Love, Amplitude and many more teams were displayed.

It is important for an entrepreneur to take control over the various areas that are critical to the business running. For this sole reason, Escalate provided the teams to be tested on three major areas i.e. Finance, Marketing and Public Relations. The stall Sweet Something, won the first place for the fest and the results were announced to the team mates on the 6th of February.

Women's Forum

This year like every other year began with new aims and outlooks. After the elections for the forum, lockers were allocated to the girl students based on letters submitted to the Ladies' secretary. Old locks were broken and then reallocation was carried out. Sports students and those living far away were considered first to be allocated with the locker facility. A Seminar on Safety of Woman was held on September 11, 2013 which was conducted by a renowned, honorable policewoman of high rank - Ms. M.C Kavitha (who has been awarded by the Prime Minister and the Chief Minister for her commendable work). She addressed the students with important guidelines and safety measures that they should follow in case they face any disturbing situations in the city. She also taught the students the use of certain safety instruments if faced with any unforeseen situation.

Girl students and lady teachers were directed to follow the respective dress code strictly prescribed by the concerned committee with affect from 19th August 2013. Strict actions were taken against those who indulged in misinterpreting the rules.
